As Summer melts away and Autumn takes hold, one of the biggest changes we notice is to be found in the garden, and as always, the Burtonian has some excellent tips for preparing the garden for the winter. The new season of Film Nights is underway and inside this issue you will find a list of films taking us through to February 2020. Please also note the piece about this years' Remembrance Service below. Of special interest in this edition you will find the first of a series of articles by Gwen Harris, who has recently embarked on a period of voluntary work in Myanmar, we wish her much luck and success in her venture and look forward to hearing more of her experiences in this troubled country.

Remembrance Service

For many years Bryan Woolnough was the star of the show wearing all his campaign medals, and we all miss him in the village. But there are other ex service people in the village (and some still serving) and I would like to make contact with you if you would like to take a positive part in the Remembrance Service this year. There were many celebrations last year to mark the 100 years since the end of the War to end all Wars, but we know that since 1918 there has only been one year when British Forces were not engaged in a campaign. Service men and women are still being injured and killed and we should acknowledge their sacrifice.

If you have or have had a link with the services I would like to hear from you, either via email, allsaintscw@gmail.com or a note in the village shop.

The wicket being rolled, cut and lined, cream teas and cakes being made, the odd set of old cricketing whites being looked out from the bottom of the cupboard and a very close eye being kept on the weather forecast. Yes what else can it be but the annual cricket match. Despite the fact that the match had been postponed by a week, due to the poor weather, there was a very good crowd supporting what turned out to be an excellent game. In a high scoring match there were many sixes scored along with notable performances from players on both sides with the victory this year going to Shaun's team.

How lovely it was to see players who spanned seven decades of village life with the eldest player being 76 and the youngest only 11!

The cricket teas were as good, if not better, than in previous years. With the impending forecast the start time was brought forward so that both innings were to be played before any adjournment for tea. It turned out that forecast was totally accurate, as at the end of the presentation of the prizes, the heavens opened just as the players headed into the pavilion for their well earned tea.

Thanks again go to Mark who umpired, David who kept the score, to Mairi, Ann, Sue, Anna, Heather and Carole who provided and served the teas, but most of all to the players and the spectators who supported us without whom the match would not be possible.

From Burton to Bangkok - by your own Foreign Correspondent

My last week at home, knowing that I am going away for a year, heightens the appreciation of what I am going to miss. I look wistfully for a last time at the boughs of the damson tree, laden with blue egg sized fruit and the apple tree heavy with luminous green Bramleys, all due, sadly, to ripen after I leave. On the coach to the airport, Keats 'Ode to Autumn' comes to mind'. Seasons of mists and mellow fruitfulness' I murmur self-indulgently as the patchwork of golden fields, the hay already cut and gathered, unfurls. At this time of year in the U.K., life seems soft and soporific.

Not so, when I land in Bangkok. Speeding in a taxi along the highway into the city, skyscrapers and billboards dominate the scenery. As we slow to a crawl downtown, I notice a large screen advertising what I take to be flu medicine. An image of an attractive young woman with a thermometer in her mouth looking slightly hot and bothered appears. Under the Thai script, an English strapline flashes up. 'Happiness is everything'. I conjecture that it probably is, but that if I were to be unfortunate enough to get ill here, I would probably prefer 'Get me to a good doctor'. Maybe the meaning is lost in translation.

I am here to obtain a visa for Myanmar where I am heading to work on a teacher training project with Voluntary Services Overseas or VSO, for those in the know. Having left my documents at the Myanmar embassy first thing in the morning, I wander back to the hotel. Passing the Sri Maha Mariamman temple and its riotously multicoloured tower of figures, I hear the discordantly loud sounds of Indian flutes emerge from inside, and being nosy, take off my shoes to enter and join the worshippers. A pale bare-chested Brahmin priest appears clad in a simple white cloth with a border of blue, his forehead white with a band of creamy powder. With wire rimmed glasses and silver earrings, he looks rather like an accountant who has taken a day off from studying figures to do something more interesting. Two dark young men wearing their long black hair in topknots, similarly clad and carrying lighted lamps, flank him. The acolytes look both strangely timeless and modern, resembling characters out of an Indian film epic set. The priest pauses in front of the various statues and, receiving the lamps, swings them efficiently in circles. One of the statues is so dark that, disconcertingly, only the bright yellow circle surrounding the face is visible. After the completion of the ceremony, a queue of devotees form, each one carrying a plate bearing a whole coconut, incense, fruit and lotus flowers. In turn, they offer these at the main shrine and in return, the priest places a thumbprint of ash on their foreheads. I later find out that the worship of Sri Maha Mariamman is meant to cure chickenpox and other infectious diseases. Maybe she would be as effective as the 'Happiness is everything' medicine.

Bangkok has all the modern international symbols of wealth. I pass a large building selling Dior and further on, more prosaically, Boots and Kentucky Fried Chicken. The lighted entrance to a shiny new shopping mall winks and beckons. Outside, the street is lined with stall holders frying pork kebabs, boiling noodles and fish balls for those hurrying to and from work. At the lowest level, seated at intervals along the pavement, others try to scratch an existence. An old man with Chinese features above a long grey wispy beard plays a flute, a young woman makes a broom head by binding sticks, a disabled man sells horoscope cards. The air is heavy with moisture and traffic fumes. This is a city of layers, the gilded and glittering nearly obliterating those underneath.

Later that day I collect my passport. One year's business visa. My photo makes me look slightly startled. Yangon, here I come!

Bentham Area Refugee Support Group

And what a weekend it was!

Asylum Seekers and Refugees from the Red Cross Bradford Centre for those experiencing destitution joined residents in Ingleton, Bentham, Burton, and Austwick for a weekend of warm Yorkshire hospitality, friendship, and respite from the struggles and pressures of their life situations. Our 21 visitors were from Libya, Sudan, Pakistan, Iran, Eritrea, and East Turkestan this year, all in different stages of the asylum and refugee process. We laughed and listened, and shared stories of pain, trauma and joy together. While the weather was unsettled, it did not spoil the enjoyment of the weekend and the bonds that developed between host and visitors.

Our huge thanks go to all our amazing team of hosts and helpers. We can't name everyone and all the different ways in which so many people helped, but have to mention Bibbys of Ingleton for affordable transport and Craven District Council for the grant of £200 towards this, the Looking Well for a space to share food together, Robert Taylor from Bentham Town Council for his welcome, and Stephen and Andrea Dennis for making us so welcome at their farm and providing the thrill of the trip with 3 frisky bullocks! Burton Recreation Ground loaned us the sports pavilion and pitch, Mark Christie and his team brilliantly improvised archery and bocce which got everyone involved on a wet afternoon, Burton Village Hall allowed us to set up early, and Gwenda Meredith and the band had all our feet tapping and made the Ceilidh such incredible fun. We are grateful too, to White Scar Cave which kindly accommodated us at short notice due to the weather, and to Yorkshire Dales National Park, which waived the car parking fees at Clapham for us. Westhouse Methodist Church provided the perfect ending to the weekend with a warm welcome and a sumptuous lunchtime feast and space for us all to join hands to sing 'We'll meet again.....", sentiments and hope shared by all.

And what else? .... Annie has recently taken a van crammed with all sorts to help 2 families in Lancaster who have just been housed, had nothing and needed everything, and she and I welcome donations of goods and toiletries which we take to Bradford, Lancaster or Help Refugees. We will be meeting soon to plan further events and our next steps, so watch this space. It is never too late to join us - email or phone - there is so much to be done.

The Rotary Club of Lunesdale

Another Rotary year has dawned and Miles Leadbetter is the new District Governor at the helm. On 30th June some members went to Barton Grange for the handover from the outgoing Governor. The title of Miles's inaugural speech was "Together We Can". It was a thought provoking speech encouraging members to "Think Differently" especially in terms of recruitment and winning new members. Recruitment is a problem area for all charity organisations in today's busy world which makes so many demands on our time. However it was so uplifting to hear about the many worthwhile causes supported by Rotary on all levels making a positive contribution of help where, how and when it is needed around the world.

At local level members have welcomed speakers each with a topic we are familiar with. There was a prolonged question and answer session after each of the speakers. On  $1^{\rm st}$  August Ben Cross, Manager of Booth's Kirkby Lonsdale store, talked about the history of the company and how it has grown to its present day position. He stressed how the company is keen to be involved in local communities. On  $8^{\rm th}$  August Sarah Garmin spoke about the incredible work done by the Bendrigg Trust. Andrea Toghy spoke about the charity shop in Bentham which raises money to help people suffering from the condition Scoliosis or Curvature of the Spine.

At the time of writing this article we look forward to an evening of Jazz with High Society at the Victoria Institute Bentham. All proceeds from the evening will be divided between The Community Link Cafe Low Bentham and Age Concern High Bentham. As always a big thank you to everyone for your support on this occasion.

GARDEN WITH GUNTHER

The Pals had a summer break from village activities during August but will meet during September to start making plans for tidying up and more bulb planting etc. BUT what we need right now are NEW MEMBERS. If fun and companionship with a bit of village enhancement thrown in sounds good, then "Pals with Trowels" is for you. We meet on the second Thursday of the month, 8pm in the Punchbowl. Give it a go!

There are still many jobs to do in the garden before winter arrives and David Thornber advises on these for October and November.

OCTOBER

Sweep up fallen leaves as these provide hiding locations for slugs and snails. Use them to make leaf mould or incorporate them into the compost heap.

As the garden is tidied in preparation for winter, lots of vegetation is collected that is suitable for composting. To encourage it to rot down quickly turn the contents of the compost heap, stir it up and allow in lots of air.

Bare root hedging plants are now available and it is a great time to plant them as well as moving and transplanting existing shrubs in the garden.

Planters that have lost their summer colour can be planted up with winter bedding such as Pansies, Cyclamen and Polyanthus. These are good for adding a splash of brightness along with winter flowering Heathers.

Beware of the build up of autumn debris on lawns. It can brown off the grass by taking much needed light, so rake clear.

Tie in wayward stems of climbers, especially Rambling Roses before the winds snap them off and spoil next year's show. When tying, aim to fill the frame, trellis or support by gently bending and manipulating stems to fill any gaps.

Pelargoniums planted in borders or pots outside should be brought indoors if you want to over-winter them. Cut them back with secateurs to 10cm and store them in a cool, light place such as an unheated greenhouse or porch.

Remove un-used plant supports from the borders and store away for next season. Check that newly planted trees and shrubs are well firmed in as strong winds can create "wind rock" which loosens the roots forming a gap at the base of the plant. This will collect rainwater, eventually freeze and damage the root system.

NOVEMBER

Lift Dahlia tubers at the start of the month to store dry and frost free over the winter months. Remove any dead foliage before storing them.

Raise planters on the patio off the ground by using bricks or "pot feet" to prevent waterlogging and take away any saucers that will hold excess water.

Edge your lawn as this is easy to do in the winter months once the borders are cleared. Edging creates a neat and tidy appearance and helps make maintenance easier throughout the year.

This is a good time to plant bare-rooted roses and shrubs as the plants are entering their winter dormancy period and can be planted now and be left to establish over the winter before bursting into growth again next spring.

November is the time of year when wingless female winter-moths climb trees to lay eggs. The caterpillars of these moths go on to eat the leaves and thus have a devastating effect on fruit trees. The solution is to fit grease bands around the trunk and possibly the tree stake. These should be placed around 45cm above the soil level, the tacky grease will catch the pests before they get into the branches.

It is advisable to check regularly plants being over-wintered under glass to make sure they are keeping healthy and free from disease. This can be prevented by removing any leaves that may become discoloured.

Watch out for hibernating Hedgehogs, always check bonfires prior to lighting as they like to settle in under twigs, log piles and leaf litter.

HAPPY GARDENING, GUNTHER

BURTON IN LONSDALE FILM NIGHT FORTHCOMING PROGRAMME

October 8—Sometimes, Always, Never

A man searches tirelessly for his missing son who he has not seen in years. When a body is located, the entire family's life is turned upside-down and they must all learn how to reconnect with one another. Starring Bill Nighy and Jenny Agutter.

November 12—Late Night

A late-night talk show host's world is turned upside down when she hires her first and only female staff writer. Originally intended to smooth over diversity concerns, her decision brings about unexpectedly hilarious consequences as the two women who are separated by culture and generation become united by their love of a biting punchline. Starring Emma Thompson.

December 10—Runaways

After their home life is turned upside down three children and the family's donkeys escape across the backbone of Northern England, confronting both the harsh landscapes and what it means to be siblings. A throwback to classic children's adventure films but with a modern aesthetic. Filmed entirely in North Yorkshire, this film comes highly recommended from Eden Arts

January 14—Yesterday

A struggling musician realizes he's the only person on Earth who can remember The Beatles, after waking up in an alternate timeline where they never existed. Directed by Danny Boyle.

February 11—Downton Abbey

The feature film of the television series, need I say more! The usual cast plus a few surprises. In cinemas now to rave reviews.

Please note that all these films will be shown this season, but the order of showing may be amended at short notice as this is dependent upon when the distributors release them for us to show. Runaways and Downton Abbey will be released to us before they become available for general sale and therefore these are the two films that may be subject to a change of month.

Thank you to everyone who turned out to see Rocket Man, a great attendance almost beating that for Bohemian Rhapsody!

All Saints' Harvest Festival.

Will be held in the church at 11 am on Sunday 6th October, followed by a Harvest Lunch at about 12.15. All are invited - and if you do not wish to join the service, feel free to join us for lunch at 12.15. Any gifts (produce or money) goes to St John's Hospice in Lancaster.

DOLLS HOUSE

Do you have, perhaps on proud display, or maybe tucked away in the attic, a doll's house? It doesn't matter whether it's large or small; old, or very new; in good condition or a bit dilapidated; maybe the only thing that matters is that it means something to you.

We are putting on an exhibition of doll's houses in the village hall on 26th October, 10:30—15:30, with the aim of raising some funds for our children's play area down by the playing fields.

If you have a doll's house to show, or are interested in helping with such an event, please speak to Carolyn in the Post Office, or with Hayley Fawcett.

First Aid/Defibrillator awareness training dates

First of all, it is the National "Re-start a Heart Day" on 16th October 2019; and, locally, there is an "Awareness Day" from 12-4pm on Saturday 26th October 2019, at Ingleton Community Centre.

This will provide basic life support hands-on training, and defibrillator training.

History is a people's memory

Burton resident Mike Biles has just published his first book. 'A Bit About Britain's History' does exactly what you think it should. It gives a brief account of Britain's amazing story, from a long time ago until quite recently, and is a gentle reminder of what you might have learned at school, if only you'd been paying attention. Or perhaps you're coming to the subject fresh and want to understand a little of how we ended up like this. It is quite a tale, from man's first footsteps across a land that is now under the sea, to the digital age. Told through a few dozen short articles, A Bit About Britain's History explains the essentials of every period, including how the ancestors of the British arrived, how they fought each other, formed nations, fell out over religion, acquired a large empire, made things, became gradually more democratic, helped win a couple of world wars and were left wondering what to do next.

Included at the end of the book are detailed timelines, which provide useful reference for all the important (and a few not so important) dates and events, and which also make fascinating reading in their own right.

A Bit About Britain's History is a product of the astonishingly wonderful website, A Bit About Britain, and is available for a very reasonable price from Amazon, in paperback or as an ebook. It might be the only book on British history you'll ever need; or it might not.

GARDEN SHARING

At a recent meeting of the PALS, it was reported that several people have expressed an interest in the concept of sharing a large garden that is too much to manage, with a neighbour who has little or no garden, but would welcome the prospect of having their own space to cultivate. Having the resource and ability to grow our own produce is becoming increasingly popular nationally, with the waiting lists for allotments in some places being several years. Alternatively, perhaps we as a village would wish to investigate the possibility of acquiring a possible site for a few allotments?

What do you think? Do you have a large garden that you are finding impossible to keep on top of or conversely are you someone who would love to get to grips with cabbages, onions broad beans etc but don't have the space? Gardening has been shown to have a beneficial effect upon our general wellbeing, fitness and mental health and is free!

If you have any thoughts on this please do get in touch with us, we would love to hear from you.

ANNUAL VILLAGE TREASURE HUNT

The third annual treasure hunt set off from the Punchbowl on a lovely Sunday afternoon, the 8th September at 4pm. Crews were given a map of the local area with 25 points marked. On another sheet were the questions (some cryptic) to be answered at those points, together with the "value" of that point. We had to choose a maximum of 18 points to visit, bearing in mind the location, the value and how difficult the question looked to be.

We also had to bring some treasure back, a large leaf (some were well over 2ft across), a conker and a chocolate surprise.

After some three hours, the crews returned to the Punchbowl for the marking and a light supper. There was also a raffle, one of the prizes being the chocolate surprises!

The winners were "Detached from the Car" who got a voucher for a meal at the Punchbowl, the second prize was chocolates.

It was a very successful event, 10 cars containing 35 people enjoyed it, and the surplus was split between Prostate Cancer UK & Breast Cancer NOW, £75 each. A good result.

Thanks must go to Shaun, Clare & Rachael Wilson for organising a brilliant event and the Punchbowl for hosting it.

And from Vicar Denis.....

Well summer seems over now, though how do we know with the weather we've been having! As we move into autumn it's the beginning of a busy time for the church. Harvest followed a few weeks later with our remembrance services and followed soon after with the Christmas season – the season which tells the story of the birth of Jesus, the friend and saviour of all. Our harvest season has already begun as we have had the first village celebration and thanks for our farmers and food with the Methodist Service in September.

The last one in the current Methodist building. All Saints harvest service will be on Sunday the  $6^{th}$  October where will celebrate God's goodness to us and to pray for those who work hard during the year to keep us fed and watered. In our village community there are many who support us. Those who 'plough the fields and scatter' – our farmers and those who work alongside them and our local shop which serves our community well. Join us to give thanks for these. The first Sunday of every month we hold our family service which is more accessible for our younger members. So, join us on the  $6^{th}$  October at 11am. We decorate the church with food stuffs to give thanks and we welcome your donations. These are shared with the Hospice in Lancaster after the service.

Our remembrance service will be held 10th November. All are welcome to join us as we remember those who made the supreme sacrifice. The service starts on the village green at ten to eleven for the 2 minutes silence. We will be especially remembering Brian Woolnough, a fond member of our community who passed away this year.

We start our Christmas season the first weekend of December (Saturday 30th November and Sunday 1st December from 10am to 4pm) with a Nativity Weekend Festival. We will have nativity displays and activities for children. We have some nativity sets but are asking if anyone in the village has a set they can lend us for the weekend. We will take very good care of them and the church will be manned during the weekend. If you can help please contact Rev Denis on 01524261579).

However, through the busyness of the next few months it is important that we keep our eyes on Jesus the reason for the seasons. We in the church are here to serve our community and if you have any needs that we can help you with, please get in touch.

Concert&Cakes

Saturday 19th October - the Larisa Trio (piano, violin & cello)

We are in for a treat at the opening concert for the 2019/2020 Concert&Cakes season as we welcome the winners of the 2019 Christopher Rowland RNCM Chamber Ensemble of the Year. That long title, given that the RNCM is the leading conservatoire for teaching chamber music – means that in effect we will be hearing the best young chamber musicians in the UK. The Larisa Trio will be playing music by Haydn, Debussy and Gershwin.

Regulars at these concerts already know that we hear fabulously talented and enthusiastic musicians at the start of what can go on to be an international career. We recommend that you catch up with cellist Abel Selaocoe who is giving a solo performance for Skipton Music on 1st October or his band Kabantu as they give a special performance for the under 5s at the Nuffield Theatre, Lancaster University, on Saturday 23rd November.

The most important thing is that we want to see you on the day – that's why we don't sell tickets and only ask for donations at the end. At the same time, these concerts can only happen because we have so many fantastic helpers, both in front and behind the scenes. If you could bake a cake, or help on the day, please let us know by speaking to Cathy Rowland or emailing concertandcakes@outlook.com.

See you in October.

From our political correspondent

ell, what a pickle we're in now. We can't be sure who'll be Prime Minister next week let alone by the end of the year. One thing is certain, whichever of the two current alternatives we get lumbered with we shall be the laughing stock of such African countries as Chad and Mali amongst others. If only we had taken my advice, offered in these pages a number of years ago and declared Burton a republic independent of the rest of the UK. Unfortunately that ship has sailed, in the interim the intended president has passed away. He, or she, was found prostate on the ground several years ago and despite the best efforts of paramedics he/she expired, apparently NHS training didn't cover how to use a defibrillator on a goldfish.

However, it's not too late to declare ourselves an independent state with our own democratically elected government. That would mean that our votes could have some relevance. Ever since Adam was a boy it hasn't mattered which party you voted for, in either district, county or national elections a conservative has been returned, and look where that's got us! So I suggest a new sort of government. No party names and we would elect a Prime Minister to serve for a year, we would also elect a cabinet for eighteen months and thereafter for a period of twelve months. That way there would always be an overlap of six months between PM and the rest of the cabinet. Voting would be on the spring and autumn equinoxes and it would be compulsory. A failure to vote would be punishable by being locked in a room for a day with the village bore, a government appointee.

Any doubts about our ability to muster a competent cabinet are quickly dispelled by a quick look around at the local populace. We have teachers, academics, accountants, solicitors, retail specialists, foreign language speakers coach drivers and more doctors and nurses than you can shake stick at. So that's education, economy, attorney general, foreign secretary, transport and health taken care of.

Our economy would be based on the breeding and export of dogs, we seem to have more dogs than humans in the village so we have a good foundation on which to build.

The question is, 'do we have a Parish Council with the courage to grasp the nettle?'

The Childrens' Flowerbed UPDATE

Dear Burtonians,

For those who missed the article on this earlier in the year, The Children's Flowerbed is a 'work in progress' on the south side of the All Saints graveyard. It is to be a circular, seasonal flowerbed of simple white bulbs designed to come up each springtime and bring joy. It is being planted as a peacefilled and celebratory reminder of all children that have been lost by miscarraige, stillbirth or for any other reason (and of any age) whom we don't often talk about but never, ever forget. It is also being planted to remember the multitudes of innocent children lost through war and natural disaster. This is their memorial. It is placed where it is in the graveyard because, behind it by the wall, are buried generations of stillborn Burton children in unmarked graves. We hope to have a plaque soon to commemorate these children too.

The Flowerbed was begun in the Spring of 2019. Many villagers donated snowdrops from their gardens (thank you again!) which have already been planted. Still to go in are white crocus, narcissi and tulips which couldn't be ordered until this Summer.

Most of the new bulbs have now arrived and the rest should arrive soon! So a provisional planting date has been set for Sat 12 October at 10am (weather permitting). Please contact me if you would like to help with the planting on 015242 62 452 or by email me at

catherine.c.r.rowland@btinternet.com

If you would like to donate towards the cost of the bulbs in memory of a beloved lost child, then that would be most welcome too. Please give any donations to Cathy Rowland, Pye Cottage, 19 Low St, BiL or to either of the All Saints Churchwardens, Christine Whitfield or Cathy Birtwistle via the shop or church.

This is a flowerbed for everyone... and thank you so much to everyone who has helped with the project so far. Only next Spring will all be revealed !!!
